S03386	CHRISTINE	ANDREW			Sapper	Royal Engineers	Survived				37 Union Pl	Grangemouth	Eldest son of Andrew Christine (foreman of electric power station at Grangemouth Docks) of 37 Union Pl, Grangemouth. Brother in services in France.	Enlisted May 1917 aged 21. Attached 2nd Coy Canadians. Presented with watch by Grangemouth people December 1918.	Military Medal March 1918; & bar July 1918	FH 11.5.1918 p.3; 17.8.1918 p.3a & 5*; 7.12.1918 p.4g; 14.12.1918 p.5d; 19.7.1919 p.8	Fireman with the Caledonian Railway Co at Grangemouth, then at Motherwell.	"On the 21st March, when the Germans started their offensive, his camp was under very heavy shell fire about five in the morning. At 9 o'clock several wounded came down the line, giving an idea of what was happening. It was considered by those in charge that their best plan was to clear out with the railway plant. After getting all engines and waggon on their way down the line, his officer asked if Sapper Christine would stay with him, which he did. In the afternoon he took an engine, and went over all of their section of the line, and gathered in all the telephones, and brought them back to the officer in charge; then he went back alone to seek for information. This occupied three hours, and was an anxious time for him and those waiting on his return." "At about 10.15am on 20th July near Reninghelst, on the "F.I." light railway line, this man was one of a party operating under the supervision of Captain A.E. Nash of this battalion. The party referred to was proceeding at the time on duty when it was noticed that a small building was on fire, which contained ammunition from a near-by battery, and that two adjacent huts, also containing ammunition, were threatened with destruction. Although the area was being subjected to enemy shell fire at the time and a violent explosion threatened, this man was one of a party who removed the boxes of fuses and cartridges, which were in the two threatened buildings, and conveyed the same to a place of comparative safety. During this operation the shelling of the area was heavy, while the fuses and explosives in the burning buildings which they had to pass close by kept going off in a series of explosions, and were a great menace to their safety. The whole operation was successfully carried out without any loss of life, and resulted in the saving of a valuable amount of ammunition, besides averting what might have been a very serious and damaging explosion. I trust you will be able to obtain for this man suitable recognition and a reward for his gallant conduct and  courageous devotion on this occasion "

DCM - "For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the operations east of Ypres on September 15th 1917, he, as brigade orderly accompanied an officer to one of the battalion headquarters, when an extremely heavy barrage came down. Although told by the officer that he might remain in a strong concrete work used as a headquarters, he, thinking he might be required at brigade headquarters, of his own initiative went out through the barrage. He set a splendid example of courage and devotion to duty. The intensity of the barrage may be judged by the fact that there were 95 dead and wounded men outside the concrete work when the barrage ceased." Detachments in the front trenches were being severely pressed. Assistance was required and it was Pte Curran's duty to convey that message. Before he could get back the heavy barrage began. He succeeded in getting through.
